Census: New growth helps Madison reverse 50-year decline

BY BOB DEMAREE

The City of Madison has steadily lost population over the last 50 years, but the 2020 US Census released earlier this month showed a reversal of that trend. In fact, the city's population of 12,357 is the biggest for Madison in 40 years marking the first census increase in half-a-century.

Bob Courtney

At the most recent meeting of City Council, Mayor Bob Courtney recognized how the population increase is "stemming a long-term trend of stagnant or declining population" for the city. "That's good news, and I think we're positioned really well in terms of Madison and Jefferson County being a very attractive community for people to relocate to for a variety of reasons."

In particular, Courtney said Madison's population has grown the most in the last two years. The US Census established the population estimate for Madison in 2019 was 11,861, which Courtney said would indicate the city's population has increased by 4.1% in just the last two years. The 2010 census put the city's population at 11,967, making it a 3.3% increase with 390 more residents over the last decade.

"The population trends support the community based investment model that the city is pursuing that focuses on quality of life, community capacity building, blight elimination, and infrastructure, all of which attracts people to want to live here," said Courtney.

Jefferson Jail dealing with 5 COVID-19 cases

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County Sheriff Dave Thomas has confirmed that the Jefferson County Jail is dealing with five confirmed cases of COVID-19 among the current inmate population.

"The Jefferson County Sheriff's Office Jail Division for the past year has worked hard to keep COVID out of the jail," Thomas said. "Jail staff has worked hard in fighting this pandemic. As we are a 24/7 facility that can never fully close and being overcrowded by 100 inmates daily, having COVID cases has been a challenge."

Thomas said the correctional and medical staff are both taking precautions to prevent the spread of COVID-19 and provide treatment to the inmate population. Thomas said over the next 14 days, every inmate in every cell block will receive a mask, each block will be provided anti-bacterial soap, every inmate brought into the jail will be screened for COVID questions and have temperature taken and inmates displaying COVID symptoms will be tested on-site.

Motorcycle passenger dies in 3-vehicle crash on SR 7

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Seymour woman who was a passenger on a motorcycle died in a crash involving two other vehicles early Saturday morning on State Road 7 north of Dupont.

Troopers from the Indiana State Police-Versailles Post investigated after the three-vehicle crash at about 12:30 a.m. Saturday near the Jefferson-Jennings county line on State Road 7 in northern Jefferson County. The initial investigation by the Indiana State Police-Versailles Crash Reconstruction Team indicated that a 1986 Honda motorcycle being driven by Jason K. Mace, 39, Seymour, was traveling northbound on State Road 7 when for an unknown reason, he lost control of the motorcycle. The motorcycle overturned, throwing Mace and a passenger, Emma K. Kiefer, 34, Seymour, from the bike.

A northbound 2019 Nissan Rogue, driven by Danielle R. Newton, 29, North Vernon, and a northbound 2019 Chevrolet Cruze, driven by Andrew J. Downs, 38, North Vernon, then both struck the previous crash scene.

VMI reports Ribberfest success, inn tax receipts up, new hirings for staff

BY BOB DEMAREE

After navigating some challenging times over the past year, Vevay Madison Inc. had good news to report at its monthly board meeting on Monday morning.

A week after the 2021 Madison Ribberfest BBQ & Blues Festival, the board commended festival coordinator Erin Kindle on the success of this year's event as attendance was up over the previous festival. In addition, revenue from the county innkeepers tax is up. And VMI now has two new employees to double the size of its staff.

"Ribberfest was really a great event, and everything went smoothly," said VMI board president Lucy Dattilo.

Kindle said 3,904 wristbands were sold, a good increase over the approximately 3,200 that were sold in 2019 before the event was canceled by COVID in 2020.

"It was a great turnout," said Kindle, who said she "went home with a smile on my face" each day.

Final balances won't be calculated until next month's VMI board meeting, but board member Jeff Frazier anticipates the event "should be OK" financially although they need to sell about 5,000 wristbands to make a decent profit. However, he said he was well pleased, particularly in that the event returned after last year's cancellation and with COVID-19 still an ongoing issue. "All things considered, I think we knocked it out of the ballpark," he said.

Through the first half of the year, a total of a $192,337.95 was collected through the county innkeepers tax, more than twice the $79,667.46 received in that same time frame in 2020.

In six of the seven months of this year, the innkeepers tax has brought in more money than the previous year including July where the $51,319.22 collection was well up over the $37,618.50 in 2020.

Hanover pursuit ends in fiery crash

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A police chase that began in Hanover at about 10 p.m. on Saturday ended in a fiery crash that led to a rescue on Interstate Block Road near Madison Municipal Airport.

Jefferson County Sheriff's Chief Deputy Josh Taylor said Hanover Town Police attempted to stop the vehicle for a traffic violation, but the occupants in the vehicle had active warrants, so the driver continued on without stopping. A chase ensued, on Grange Hall Road and State Road 256, and ended when the vehicle crashed on West Interstate Block Road near the west side of the Airport.

Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said the vehicle struck a cedar tree and caught fire.

"It engulfed in flames quickly, and it as pretty intense," he said. The three occupants in the vehicle were rescued by Madison Township Assistant Chief Rodney Black and firefighter Kassie Black.

Taylor said two of the three have been released from the hospital. Names of the individuals and other information was not available at presstime.

Madison Township Fire Department was assisted at the scene by the Rykers' Ridge, Hanover Township and Kent fire departments along with King's Daughters' Hospital Emergency Medical Service.

First responders rescue dog at Clifty Falls Park

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Local first responders rescued a dog that went over a 25-foot embankment at Clifty Falls State Park on Wednesday and then slid another 100 feet to the bottom of a hill.

The dog, named "Marley," got into trouble last Wednesday at Clifty Falls State Park when it ran over the edge at Lookout Point, going down 25 feet between two rock boulders while hitting one of the boulders. The pet then slid another 100 feet down the hill where it was unable to get back up the hill without assistance.

Jefferson County Animal Control Officer P.J. Geyman was on scene to assist in the rescue, along with Madison Township Fire Department and Rykers' Ridge Fire Department.

Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black said the dog outwardly appeared uninjured, but was taken to a local veterinarian to be checked as a precaution.

Columbus East student killed in hit and run while boarding bus

BY THE COURIER STAFF

COLUMBUS — A Columbus East High School student preparing to board a school bus was struck and killed Monday morning by a car whose driver was taken into custody after fleeing the scene, police said.

Shiam Sunder Shankara Subramani

The student, 16-year-old Lily Streeval, was pronounced dead at Columbus Regional Hospital (CRH) after being struck at about 6:55 a.m. in the 1900 block of South Gladstone Avenue while trying to board the Bartholomew Consolidated School Corp. bus, police said.

Witnesses reported that the student was walking eastbound across the highway attempting to get on a stopped school bus when she were struck by a southbound passenger car. The driver of the car fled the scene and was followed by a witness who observed the crash. The suspect was located a short time later on County Road 250 East where he was taken into custody.

Deputies said after reviewing footage of the incident and gathering witness statements, it appears the bus was stopped with the stop arms extended and the driver disregarded the stop arms.

Major Chris Lane of the Bartholomew County Sheriff's Office said the department was working with Bartholomew County School Corp. in its investigation of the student's death.

"Our thoughts and prayers are with the family. A tragic event like this affects many people and we are thinking of everyone involved," Lane said in a statement.

The driver, later identified as Shiam Sunder Shankara Subramani, 25, of Columbus, was transported to CRH for a blood draw. He was then transported to the Bartholomew County Jail and remanded for preliminary charges of Leaving the Scene of an Accident Causing Death, a Level 4 felony, and Reckless Driving/Passing Stopped School Bus with Arms Extended Causing Death, a Level 5 felony.

The coroner's cause of death ruling is blunt force trauma to the cervical spine and chest with the death ruled a homicide.

Over the last few months as VMI negotiated with the Jefferson County Board of Tourism for a contract, budget shortfalls saw VMI's staff reduced to two employees — Sarah Prasil, executive marketing director, and Tiffini Poling, office manager — but with a contract approved earlier this summer, VMI has now added two staffers — Hannah Shaffer as marketing specialist and Julie Strouse as visitor services travel advisor.

"I'm excited to have the relief and help," said Prasil. With Shaffer on staff, Prasil said it "will allow us to take our marketing to the next level." Prasil said because Shaffer has lived in Madison her entire life, "she knows firsthand the beauty and history that our beloved community brings to the southern Indiana region."

Shaffer, a Southwestern graduated has a business degree from IU Southeast and also teaches yoga at Fit for the King gym. "She is excited to put her background and experiences to good use by sharing her love of the Madison community among locals and tourists alike," Prasil said.

In her role as visitor services travel advisor, Prasil said Strouse will be the "first person the visitors see" when they come to the visitor center at 601 West First Street. She will help people to "decide where to go and what to do while they're here in Jefferson County."

Meanwhile, Prasil and Dattilo reported on a recent meeting with Indiana State Museum and Historical Sites (ISMHS) about planned changes for the visitor center. VMI has leased space there since 2002, said Dattilo, who said a four-year contract has been signed to continue that lease.

However, ISMHS has plans to update signage to be more consistent with its branding throughout the state, while also putting Visit Madison's name on the building. "They're also looking at the building and how to utilize it," said Dattilo, noting there are plans to revamp the space so it can be better used for ISMHS programming.

"We're glad they are wanting to go over their plans and include us," said Prasil. VMI has used part of the building for storage, and with more of the building shifting toward programming, Prasil said they may have to find other places for those items.

Prior to being the visitor center, the building served as the Lide White Boys and Girls Club until that organization moved into its current space on the hilltop.

CENSUS

"A community doesn't have to offer everything but it does have to have a certain level of community asset amenities and be close to larger communities that supplement our lifestyle or work options. When we focus on the needs of the people, our population will grow and that is good for business and workforce as well. Everyone working hard to improve education, healthcare, tourism, business, and government policy have contributed to Madison and Jefferson County's growth and that's great for Madison's economy."

Madison's population reached a high of 13,081 in the 1970 census — a 24.7% increase from 1960 when the population was 10,488 — which had been a 39.7% increase over the 1950 census of 7,506.

During the 1950s and 1960s, there was significant activity to drive the city forward. Madison business leaders formed a group called the Frontliners that was instrumental in bringing industry to Madison. In 2004, former Madison Courier reporter Phil Cole wrote that prior to the Frontliners efforts that Madison's hilltop only had a couple of industries, but through the work of the Frontliners several new plants located in Madison including Rotary Lift, Chain Belt, Conn Organ, Reliance and Grote. Additionally, in the late 1950s there began to be more focus on historic preservation to revitalize downtown Madison while industry was flourishing on the hilltop.

But beginning in the 1970s, Madison's population began a decline, dropping 4.7% to 12,472 by the 1980 census and 3.7% to 12,006 in the 1990 census while staying steady in 2000 with the population falling by just two people to 12,004. In 2010, the population dropped by 0.3% to 11,967.

With Madison's population now back on an upswing, Courtney believes the recent growth in Madison also helped Jefferson County to show a population increase, while many of Indiana's rural counties declined in population in the 2020 census. There was a 2.2% increase in Jefferson County's population to 33,147, up from 32,428 in the 2010 census. Jefferson County's two-year increase was 2.6% with the 2019 population estimate at 32,308.

Meanwhile, 2020 census determined that Indiana's population grew by 4.7% to approximately 6,785,528 million residents, but the growth occurred in metropolitan areas, particularly in Indianapolis and its surrounding counties that overall grew by 13%, while 49 of Indiana's 92 counties saw a decline in population over the last decade and most were in rural Indiana.

The US Census data shows Switerland County's population dropped 8.3%, more than any other county in Indiana. Switerland's population was 9,737 in the 2020 census, a decrease of 876 from the 2010 census when the population was 10,613.

Jon Bond, president of the Switzerland County Economic Development Commission, said he has concerns that the census data may not have captured all of the county's population. "We think we got a bad count," he said, blaming a Supreme Court decision that ruled that census field operations could end early, which prevented an effort to extend the 2020 census following delays caused by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Bond noted Switzerland County has a "big Amish community that requires extra field work to reach that community," and he feels those residents "got lost in the shuffle" along with others in the county, particularly those parts of county in which Internet connectivity is limited where they are less able to respond to the census online.

"A community doesn't have to offer everything but it does have to have a certain level of community asset amenities and be close to larger communities that supplement our lifestyle or work options. When we focus on the needs of the people, our population will grow and that is good for business and workforce as well. Everyone working hard to improve education, healthcare, tourism, business, and government policy have contributed to Madison and Jefferson County's growth and that's great for Madison's economy."

Better availability of Internet in Vevay is a reason Bond feels more confident about the accuracy of the census count there. The town of Vevay saw an increase in population to 1,741 — an improvement of 3.4% over the 1,683 in the 2010 census. "I'm encouraged by those numbers for Vevay, and I think Vevay has more room to grow."

Jefferson Township, which includes Vevay, was the only township in Switzerland County to show a population increase at 1.1%. Each of the other five townships showed drops in population by more than 11% with the greatest fall in Craig Township at 14.9%.

Bond said census data showing such a steep decline doesn't mesh with what he's observed, citing a housing study that he said shows a shortage with the county needing 148 more owner-occupied units, and 71 more rentals.

In addition to Madison's growth in Jefferson County, the town of Hanover also showed an increase its population climbing 5.6% to 3,743, an additional 197 people over the 2010 census population of 3,546. Hanover Clerk-Treasurer Keith Mefford said he isn't surprised by the data because he has noticed an increase in requests for building permits in the town. "I have felt like we are growing just by what I've seen. I think it's great," he said. Hanover is coming off a 25.1% increase for 2010 population of 3,546 that followed a steep decline of 21.5% for the 2000 census of 2,834.

Meanwhile, Dupont increased by 1.2% with population growing by four to 343 while Brooksburg fell by 11% with the population dropping by nine to 72.

In Kentucky, Trimble County's population fell 3.8% with the 2020 census at 8,474, a drop from 8,809 in 2010. Bedford saw a 12.2% drop with the population falling to 526 while Milton increased 2.8% to 590. Meanwhile, Carroll County remained virtually the same with 10,810 in the 2020 census, a drop by one of the 10,811 total in the 2010 census. Carrollton's population fell by 1.2% to 3,890.

The State of Kentucky's population increased by 3.8% to about 4.5 million between 2010 and 2020. Metropolitan counties, along with other areas in the state's midsection, showed strong growth. Four counties surrounding Louisville were among the leaders in the state population gains — Shelby and Spencer counties each grew by 14.2%, Oldham County by 12.1% and Bullitt County by 10.6%. Jefferson County in Kentucky, which includes Louisville, grew by 5.7%.

A promiscuous former life

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: My wife and I have been together since we were just out of high school. We've been married for 18 years, and we have three glorious children. We have a great relationship, but I recently discovered she was extremely promiscuous in high school and found out she slept with many of our friends, some of whom are still in our social circle. I have always had a jealous nature, and now the jealousy is overwhelming my daily thoughts, especially when we see these other guys. Although the encounters happened before my time with her, I still feel cheated on and don't look at her the way I once did. I have not brought it up with her, because I know she will get super defensive, and I know she will not go to counseling because of the nature of the topic. Any insight into getting over this would be appreciated, as I do love her and want to be with her. — Jealous in Wisconsin

Dear Jealous: Your wife is still looking at you with the same love in her eyes she always has, and if she knew you now look at her differently because of things she did 20 years ago, she would be heartbroken. So don't tell her. Though I generally champion the importance of talking every problem out with a romantic partner, unfounded jealousy is the exception.

If you aired your feelings, they'd grow like fanned flames. You'd most likely make your wife feel defensive, and her defensiveness would in turn make you feel less secure about the marriage. Deprive these fiery feelings of oxygen and they'll eventually die out.

It's also not worth talking about it with her because this is about you, not your relationship. Do some digging and try to get to the root of your insecurity. Use positive self-talk to encourage rational thinking. And if the obsessive thoughts won't stop nagging you, consider therapy.

Dear Annie: I recently visited a small deli-type restaurant and ordered a takeout square of lasagna. There was a big glass tip jar of cash right next to the credit card screen. I waited for my order, and when I received it, I placed several bucks in the tip jar — overly generous, as my tab was only $6 — and walked back to my camper. When I opened my bag, I found that my lasagna was a very small edge slice, and it was burned black — not even close to being edible. I am mildly disabled, enough that a stroll back to the restaurant was too much for my bad knees.

I would like to know when a tip went from being a reward for exemplary service to a ransom for basic decency. I sure wish I had my tip money back for that lasagna. Alert to owners: Do you know how your employees are treating your customers? I'll surely never return, nor will many of the people I related my experience to. Alert to service personnel: What are you going to do when the business where you work folds because customers don't come back? — Lost Customer in Wilmington

Dear Customer: It sounds as if you didn't give this server a chance to earn her tip. Next time, speak up. If a restaurant wants to stay in business, it'll do what it can to keep customers happy.

Stressed about mom's finances

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: Our family is like most families — dysfunctional. Our father worked two jobs most of his life to better himself for the good of his family. My mother was a spender, but my father controlled the money. When my father passed, my mother was finally free to live as she wanted.

Yet my eldest sibling, "Dan," suddenly controlled all her money. Never was there a family meeting to discuss finances. Recently, we learned that Dan has taken liberty with our mother's money. Almost everything my father worked for is gone. Our mother needs assistance, and now she cannot afford it. I feel that Dan cheated not only my mother but also the rest of our family, because now we have this added burden of her care. Dan has never shown remorse. Our mother could press charges for elder abuse but has chosen not to go that route.

The burden has mostly fallen upon me to care for our mother. I really enjoy our time together. But I am struggling now because the rest of the family wants to find peace and has let Dan back into the fold. He is a bad person who is a real con. He's stolen from people outside the family, too. I cannot seem to accept this decision. I have forgiven the crook, but I cannot forget.

I am keeping my distance from the situation and asking all other family members to assist with our mother's care. My family has no idea of the stress this situation has put on me. I have lost some of my hair; I constantly break out in rashes; and I hardly ever sleep at night because I worry about our mother's finances.

I am wondering whether I am wrong to start thinking of myself and to stop worrying about our mother's future. I know there are ways to get assistance for our mom, but without her pressing charges against the person responsible, it might be difficult. I would like all of us to find peace with this situation so there will be a legacy of love and kindness left by our mother. Can I just go on and pray that my other siblings will see that I need to separate myself from all of it? — Heartbroken

Dear Heartbroken: You might want to consult an attorney about your situation, just to be sure you've exhausted every avenue regarding your mom's finances and your brother's mishandling of them.

That said, the person I'm worried most about is you. It is not wrong at all for you to start thinking of yourself. In fact, it's imperative that you do. The rashes, hair loss and lack of sleep are symptoms of severe stress. Consider seeing a therapist, as it could greatly improve your quality of life. If not therapy, at least take other steps to improve your mental health — whether that means planning a vacation, taking a fitness class or simply spending more time alone. Self-care is not self-indulgence.

JAIL

The on-site nurse is currently checking COVID vitals on all COVID-infected inmates once daily and if inmates test positive that will limit movement of all inmates in the entire cell block.

Meanwhile, high risk inmates are being relocated to different areas of the jail if possible and voluntary vaccinations are being offered to all inmates.

All staff members are wearing N95 masks and gloves at all times, and no outside groups or meetings are being allowed to meet within the jail. Vacation and time off for all jail staff members has been suspended.

While the jail is dealing with a new outbreak, one elementary school is back in classes after shifting to virtual learning earlier this month.

Students at Anderson Elementary returned to classes Monday after going virtual on Aug. 19 due to instances of COVID-19 in the school. "All students are back on campus," said Ashley Schutte, communications coordinator for Madison Consolidated Schools.

From Aug. 27-29, Jefferson County registered 68 new positive cases of COVID-19 to total 4,117 overall. The county's 7-day positivity rate dropped to 9.4%. Switzerland County had just 25 new positive cases of COVID-19 over the weekend, taking its over count to 1,041. Switzerland County's 7-day positivity is 13.8%.

On Friday, Trimble County had 12 new positive cases of COVID-19, lifting its total to 911. Carroll County reported 13 new positive cases to increase its total to 1,324. Trimble's positivity rate is 21.39% while Carroll's rate is 11.28%.

On Tuesday from 3-6 p.m., Ivy Tech Community College Madison, 590 Ivy Tech Drive, in partnership with the Jefferson County Health Department will offer a walk-in COVID-19 vaccination clinic offering the Moderna and Pfizer options. A state issued ID will be required. Those under 18 will need parental consent, which can be completed on site.

JCHD is also accepting walk-ins at its office for COVID-19 vaccinations at its office at 715 Green Road, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. Three vaccines, Pfizer, Moderna and Johnson & Johnson are available. Individuals ages 12-17 must receive Pfizer vaccine and have an adult present.

Switzerland County Health Department continues to operate a vaccine clinic at 1190 West Main Street, Vevay.

All Kentuckians can sign up for a COVID-19 vaccination appointment near where they live or work at vaccine.ky.gov.

‘Gutsy’ performance lifts Madison over Dearborn

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

AURORA — Madison won the type of game that it has lost too many times over the years, overcoming a two-touchdown deficit and surviving a last-second field goal attempt to beat South Dearborn, 29-26, Friday on the road.

Not a lot went right for the Cubs over the game’s first 44 minutes. Madison gave up back-to-back safeties and a late touchdown in the second quarter to trail by 12 early in the fourth quarter.

But displaying the type of resolve that coach Leroy Wilson has touted all year, Madison came back, getting two huge defensive stops, a big catch by the smallest player on the field and a go-ahead touchdown with just over four minutes to play before a missed field goal by the Knights at the end of the game sealed the win.

“It’s the mental toughness that we talk about. We preach about being a beast and that’s leadership qualities, that’s character and our attitude in how we approach everything, not just football,” Wilson said. “If you look back at the last couple of years, you can see where we start to slip away and these dudes just kept chipping, chipping and chipping. It didn’t matter what happened on the last play. We were lining up and doing it again.”

Madison’s defense kept the Cubs in the game long enough for the offense to finally figure itself out, forcing two four-and-outs in the first half. But it was a touchdown, on a 33-yard pass from Logan Thies to Reese Willoughby as time expired before halftime that staked South Dearborn to a 19-7 lead and had the defense steaming.

“We kept them in the game but we should have kept them in more,” senior linebacker Curtis Jacobs said. “The one rushing touchdown we gave up we had a misalignment and the touchdown at the end of the half we were in prevent and we just didn’t do our job.”

Madison (1-1) used that first half as motivation when play got underway in the second half. Quarterback Kaden Oliver and receiver Colin Yancey went to work, ripping off yards culminating in a 33-yard score to cut the lead to 19-14 midway through the third.

An interception made things easy for the Knights, who scored on the first play of the fourth quarter with a 15-yard run by C.J. Rogers to go ahead 26-14, but Madison never blinked. Oliver and Yancey again worked the Cubs down the field with Oliver breaking three tackles en route to a 13-yard scoring scramble that closed the gap to 26-21 with 7:30 to go.

“I pulled Kaden and Colin aside at halftime and told them we needed them to go to work,” Wilson said. “We needed them to take over and they did.”

Madison got the chance to go ahead when Dylan Dirksen intercepted Thies on a fourth down pass with 5:33 to play and then when Oliver made the play of the game.

With the Knights expecting another play to Yancey, Oliver instead rolled out to his right and hit a streaking Jake Dyer along the sideline for a 40-yard pass. Dyer, the diminutive 5-foot-2, 120-pound freshman receiver, was an afterthought to the Dearborn defense and that cost the Knights dearly.

“It was supposed to be a five and out to Yancey. My read guy is usually the corner, but the safety came blasting up and Dyer was wide-open,” Oliver said with a smile.

Dyer’s catch set the Cubs up on the Dearborn 1-yard line and Oliver took the next snap and scored his third rushing touchdown of the game. A two-point pass to Grant Grossen gave Madison a 29-26 lead with 4:34 to play.

South Dearborn (1-1) had plenty of time to mount a comeback of its own, and eventually reached the Madison 10-yard line with 46 seconds to play. A loss of one on the next play set the Knights up with a fourth and seven from the 11.

South Dearborn coach Rand Ballart sent female freshman kicker Taytum Barker out to attempt a 27-yard field goal. Barker, who had hit eight extra points so far this season, shanked her kick into the ground off to the left and the Cubs began their celebration.

“It was a very gutsy performance. We had a rough start, sure, but these dudes gutted it out,” Wilson said. “Offense, defense, special teams. Just an absolutely gutsy performance by these dudes.”

Oliver finished the game with 211 yards on 13-of-23 passing and a touchdown as well as three rushing touchdowns. Yancey had 155 yards on nine receptions and a score.

Jacobs, Cam King and Brayden Richards each had seven tackles on defense for Madison while Dirksen had six tackles. Van Skinner had five tackles — two for a loss — and two quarterback hits.

Thies had 173 yards on 11-of-26 passing for South Dearborn while Rogers had 149 yards on 24 rushes.

After two games on the road, Madison comes home for the first time this season and will take on Carroll County for just the second time in school history. Carroll scored a 33-13 win in 1982, in the only other game played between the two programs.

Caverna late score trips up Trimble, 38-36

BY LAUREN HANEY

Caverna scored a touchdown late in the game to deny Trimble County 38-36 in the Raiders’ football season opener on Saturday in Bedford.

Trimble fell behind early in the game but battled back throughout the second and third quarters, leading at halftime and at the end of the third period. Kaden May had two rushing touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions, James Thomas Wilcoxson had a rushing touchdown, returned a fumble for a touchdown and had a two-pointer, and Jessup Smith scored a touchdown on the ground as the Raiders pulled ahead.

However, Caverna broke through the Raiders’ defense in the fourth quarter to take the lead on a 66-yard touchdown. The Raiders were not able to recover and ended up losing to the Colonels by two.

“We’re still learning. New system, new coaches. I don’t know how comfortable these guys are having expectations set and accountability and stuff we have to do to progress,” Trimble County coach J.P. Dale said. “It’s a great group, I love them. Hard working group but sometimes I think we get that ‘Oh no here we go again’ mentality and we’re trying to change that. We’ve got a few that are still stuck in that but that’s our job to fix that.”

Caverna used a holding penalty against Trimble to take an early lead. Although the Raiders recovered from that, Dale said his team needs to do a better job in execution to prevent such miscues.

“If we don’t have the hold on the first touchdown we roll. We had some silly penalties and those are big moments,” Dale said. “I called offense tonight so it’s on me. I have to figure out a better way to get the ball into the hands of our playmakers. We’ve got five or six guys that, if they can touch the ball, they score.”

Both Wilcoxson and Smith ran for over 100 yards rushing. Wilcoxson, the quarterback, ran for 136 yards on 13 attempts while Smith had 133 yards on 11 attempts. Overall, the Raiders collected 324 yards on the ground but only 37 through the air.

Wilcoxson also had 11 tackles and a sack on defense.

“We played hard. Our skill guys did well, couple of our linemen did well,” Dale said. “We just were not very good on defense tonight and we need to get that fixed. I credit that to a lot of guys going both ways.”

Quarterback Cameron Buchanan led Caverna in both passing and rushing. Buchanan was 6-of-8 passing for 187 yards and two touchdowns and also rushed for 107 yards and four scores on the ground. Gil Harper caught two passes for 98 yards and a touchdown.

Trimble County now crosses the Ohio River into Indiana to take on Switzerland County on Friday. The Raiders, 0-2 previously against the Pacers, are looking for their first win against an Indiana opponent. Game time is 7 p.m. in Vevay.

Burrow returns for Bengals as Dolphins rally for victory

BY JEFF WALLNER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Nine months after tearing both the ACL and MCL in his left knee, Bengals quarterback Joe Burrow took his first snaps Sunday against the Miami Dolphins, who rallied to win 29-26 in a wild preseason finale for both teams.

"Felt good to be back," Burrow said. "Not only for me but to be back in front of the fans."

Things didn't end well for the Bengals, however.

In the fourth quarter, Reid Sinnett tossed a 43-yard TD pass to Kirk Merritt. Then with 1:21 left, he scrambled on fourth-and-15 and found a leaping Chris Myarick in the corner of the end zone for a 34-yard TD to put the Dolphins ahead.

"Reid made some big throws," Dolphins coach Brian Flores said. "He battled to the bitter end and made a play at the end. I'm excited for him. He played his butt off tonight."

According to the Dolphins, Sinnett's 343 passing yards are the most by any one player in a preseason game since at least 2017.

Burrow, the overall No. 1 pick in the 2020 draft, was greeted by a standing ovation and chants of "Joey, Joey" when he came out for the Bengals' first offensive series. Burrow took three snaps before the Bengals were forced to punt.

Bengals coach Zac Taylor said he did not consider playing Burrow longer.

"It's good for everybody," Taylor said of the ovation Burrow received. "It's just kind of, 'He's back.' There was a lot of unknown there last November. I think to see him back in the huddle and get things back to normal is great for all of us."

His first and only pass attempt was dropped by former LSU teammate Ja'Marr Chase, who has had issues with drops this preseason.

"Not worried about it," Burrow said. "I know the kind of guy Ja'Marr is. The kind of player he is. He'll be ready to go Week 1."

Burrow was medically cleared in time for the opening of training camp on July 28 but had not yet played in a preseason game. He passed for 2,688 yards and 13 touchdowns last season prior to the injury in Week 10.

Sinnett started at quarterback for the Dolphins, who rested most of their starters on Sunday, including Tua Tagovailoa. Stinnett was 22 of 33 for 343 yards with two TDs and an interception.

Rookie running back Gerrid Doaks rushed for 41 yards on 14 carries with two touchdowns for Miami.

The Dolphins only dressed 45 players and rested the majority of starters on Sunday, but Flores said there are still some roster decisions to be made.

"I observed throughout today's game some guys who are close that played well," he said. "There are some hard decisions we're going to have to make."

WATSON RUMORS

Flores addressed reports that the Dolphins are interested in acquiring Texans QB Deshaun Watson, saying he has faith in Tua Tagovailoa.

"I'm very confident in Tua," Flores said. "He did a lot of good things in training camp. Played well last week. I'm interested in the players on our team. Any conversations that we have or don't have with other clubs are going to be internal."

Watson, who has passed for 14,539 yards and 104 TDs in four seasons in Houston, is facing several civil lawsuits for sexual misconduct.

LONG WAY

Bengals rookie kicker Evan McPherson helped his chances of winning the starting job with a 57-yard field goal on the last play of the first half. If this was a regular-season game, it would have tied the longest field goal in franchise history. On Dec. 19, 2019, Randy Bullock nailed a 57-yarder, also against the Dolphins.

Colts beat Lions, 27-17, but lose quarterback Ehlinger to injury

BY LARRY LAGE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT — The Indianapolis Colts' depth chart at quarterback took another hit.

Rookie Sam Ehlinger was knocked out of the preseason finale with a knee injury in a 27-17 win over the Detroit Lions on Friday night.

"It didn't look good," Colts coach Frank Reich said. "We need to wait for the doctors' final say."

With Carson Wentz recovering from foot surgery, Ehlinger is competing with second-year quarterback Jacob Eason to possibly take the team's first snap in two weeks when the season opens.

Ehlinger was hurt in the first half after he was 3 for 3 for 63 yards, including a 60-yard pass after escaping a sack, and had a 14-yard run. Eason was 10 of 14 for 74 yards.

To keep Eason healthy for Week 1, the Colts let 28-year-old Brett Hundley finish the game under center and he took full advantage.

Hundley threw a 3-yard touchdown pass to Deon Jackson and the rookie running back rushed for a tying, 2-point conversion. A few snaps later, linebacker Curtis Bolton intercepted David Blough's pass to set up Rodrigo Blankenship's 42-yard field goal — his fourth of the game — that put Indy ahead 20-17.

Jackson converted a third down with a 42-yard touchdown run up the middle with 1:50 left, sealing a 3-0 preseason for the Colts.

Detroit fell to 0-3 under first-year coach Dan Campbell.

"I'm encouraged — I am," Campbell said. "Do we still have work to do? Yeah. A lot of work to do, but we have time. The hardest thing is to have urgency and patience at the same time. I don't know how you do that, but I'm working on it."

The Lions looked like they might win the preseason game when they led 14-6 late in the first quarter on Tim Boyle's 15-yard touchdown pass to Quintez Cephus and Godwin Igwebuike's 1-yard run for a score.

Detroit's defense, which was one of the worst in NFL history last season, failed to stop Indy's fourth-string quarterback to hold on for the win.

Both teams are banking on a veteran quarterback to bounce back this season and each was rested in the preseason finale.

Wentz was acquired from Philadelphia for a third-round draft pick and a 2022 conditional second-round selection. He could be ready for the opener after breaking his foot and having surgery earlier this month. Wentz returned to practice earlier this week.

Detroit dealt Matthew Stafford to the Los Angeles Rams for Jared Goff, two first-rounders and a third-round pick.

INJURY REPORT

Colts: Backup OT Sam Tevi was carted off with an injured left leg early in the third quarter, when Hundley's first pass was intercepted by Corn Elder. ... WR Dezmon Patmon, who caught the 60-yard pass from Ehlinger, left the game with a foot injury.

Lions: Boyle hurt his right thumb during the game and had it protected in a brace. "We may have to prepare for him to be out for a bit," Campbell said. ... OT Dan Skipper went off the field on a cart late in the first half with an injury to his lower left leg.

PANDEMIC PLAY

The Colts have starting offensive linemen, All-Pro guard Quenton Nelson and Pro Bowl left tackle Eric Fisher on the reserve/COVID-19 list.

Reich said Fisher tested positive, but is asymptomatic and will be able to continue his recovering from a torn Achilles tendon.

Reich said Nelson was deemed a close contact because of his proximity to Fisher.

Luzado pitches 6 shutout innings to help Miami beat Reds, 2-1

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI — The Cincinnati Reds started to complain about plate umpire Edwin Moscoso's strike zone in the first inning and were still upset in the ninth, losing every argument and the game.

Cincinnati totaled two hits and two ejections Sunday in a 2-1 defeat to the Miami Marlins.

Joey Votto argued at length when he took a pivotal strike three in the first. Eugenio Súarez was ejected after being called out in the seventh, and manager David Bell was tossed for arguing a strike called on Kyle Farmer, who then went down swinging to end the game with the tying run on second.

Cincinnati's lead over San Diego for the second NL wild card fell to 1 1/2 games.

Jesús Luzardo allowed one hit and no runs in six-plus innings to help the Marlins take the rubber game of the series. He escaped in the first inning after the first two Reds reached, with Votto taking a 3-2 pitch for a called third strike that appeared well outside.

Luzardo (5-7) had by far his best outing since being acquired from Oakland for Starling Marte at the trade deadline. The left-hander tied a career high with eight strikeouts.

Miami won with four hits. The Reds' Tyler Mahle (10-5) allowed two runs in seven innings.

The Reds' Tyler Naquin went went 0 for 2 with a walk, ending his 17-game hitting streak. He reached in the second inning when second baseman Jazz Chisholm Jr. failed to field a tough grounder and was charged with an error.

Reds 6, Marlins 0 (Friday) — Wade Miley pitched six-hit ball over seven innings, Tyler Naquin homered and extended his major league-leading hitting streak, and the Cincinnati Reds beat the Miami Marlins 6-0 Friday night.

Miley (11-4) struck out five, walked one and hit a run-scoring double. The 34-year-old left-hander lowered his ERA to 2.74 and hasn't lost since May 19, a span of 16 starts.

"I wasn't as sharp as I'd like to be but we executed pitches when we needed to, got contact when we needed to," Miley said. "We opened it up midway through the game and it became easier to pitch."

Naquin had three hits to stretch his hitting streak to 16 games, the longest current run in the majors. Mike Moustakas also went deep for the Reds.

Moustakas and Miley had RBI doubles in a four-run fourth. With Moustakas at second and first base open, the Marlins intentionally walked Max Schrock to face Miley, who hit a hard grounder that bounced inside the third base line and rolled to the left-field corner. Schrock and Miley later scored

Louisville suspends head coach for 6 games

BY DYLAN LOVAN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — The University of Louisville said Friday that it is suspending head basketball coach Chris Mack for six games for failing to follow procedures in handling an extortion attempt by one of his assistants.

Mack "failed to follow university guidelines, policies, and procedures in handling the matter," Louisville athletics director Vince Tyra said in a news release.

"I am confident that Coach Mack now understands the impact of his actions," Tyra added. "We all have confidence in him moving forward."

Mack said he accepts the suspension and "could have handled matters differently."

Mack's former assistant, Dino Gaudio, pleaded guilty in June to a federal charge of attempted extortion. Gaudio was sentenced in federal court Friday to probation and a $10,000 fine for the attempted extortion.

The university said it determined Mack was a victim of the attempted extortion.

Gaudio was dismissed from the team along with another assistant in March after the team missed the NCAA tournament. Federal prosecutors said Gaudio, after learning he would be fired, threatened to go to the news media with alleged NCAA violations by the team. He asked for 17 months of salary or a $425,000 lump sum payment, according to the U.S. attorney.

The basketball program weathered numerous scandals during former coach Rick Pitino's tenure, and an NCAA investigation is continuing.

The suspension will include six nonconference games from Nov. 8 to 27, including two games in the Bahamas. Mack cannot have any contact with coaches or players during the suspension, and he will have to forfeit about $221,000 of his salary.

Ivy League sports return as way they went out: Cautiously

BY JIMMY GOLEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The Ivy League was the first conference to scuttle its basketball postseason when the pandemic broke out during March Madness a year and a half ago. It was the first Division I conference to suspend fall sports in July 2020.

Now the schools are getting back on the field the same way they left: cautiously.

All eight Ivies are requiring that their football teams be vaccinated for COVID-19 — just like the rest of the students on campus. Ivy League executive director Robin Harris said this month that the goal had been reached with "very limited medical or religious" exceptions.

"While COVID-19 is very much a part of our lives, we believe in the campus policies," she said. "This allows us to plan for a regular football season."

Although the alliance of eight prestigious private schools in the Northeast has always been more about academics than athletics, the Ivy League decision to cancel its men's and women's basketball tournaments before anyone else on March 10, 2020, was a turning point in the response to the pandemic. Other college and professional leagues soon followed amid a worldwide sports shutdown.

In the almost 18 months since, the Ivies have remained idle with the exception of scattered individuals or teams competing in some one-off, nonconference events, including the NCAA rowing championships. That ended when all eight women's soccer teams opened their seasons on Aug. 27, with Harvard playing Fairfield in the Crimson's first intercollegiate sporting event since March 8, 2020.

"You don't always appreciate how much you miss something until it's taken from you," Harvard football coach Tim Murphy said.

Since then, players were able to do different things to stay in shape, depending on restrictions in their home states or countries. And because of the varied local restrictions, players returned this fall in a wide rage of fitness levels.

"I think we did the best job we possibly could have, and it's going to show this season," Brown running back Allen Smith said. "It's been a long time coming, so we could not be more excited to get back to Brown football."

Brown did have spring football practice, but Columbia had few students — and thus, players — on campus last fall, and mostly seniors in the spring; Harvard had some freshman last fall and a small contingent in the spring.

Murphy said his team will have just eight padded practices in almost two years between its 50-43, double-overtime loss to Yale in The Game and its 2021 opener Sept. 18 at Georgetown.

"We've all had different on-campus footprints," he said. "It does leave a lot of question marks."

As they return, players will face new protocols to combat the spread of the delta variant.

In addition to the vaccine requirement, Dartmouth players will wear masks indoors, with improved air filtration and circulation; some meetings on the Hanover, New Hampshire, campus will be held outdoors. Cambridge has a city-wide indoor mask mandate that goes into effect on Sept. 3.

"Harvard's done a remarkable job, making sure that students — and the student athletes, therefore — are healthy and well," Murphy said. "I know that our medical folks have done a phenomenal job, and whatever they tell us to do, we're 100% going to do it."

Penn coach Ray Priore said he reached out to coaches who played or practiced in the spring — including his brother, Chuck, who is the head coach at Stony Brook. Chip Kelly at UCLA also passed along a little advice for ramping things up after the long layoff: "Less is more."

"You grab some of those tidbits and wisdoms: How many reps do you really need; do more with walkthroughs. The key thing is how we maximize our time with our players," Priore said. "We've been in the Zoom world for a long time."

Reddick lands NASCAR's final playoff spot despite crash

BY MARK LONG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Tyler Reddick parked his taped-together Chevrolet on the backstretch, far from everyone else and quite possibly in the way of track workers trying to clean up a crash. He could smell burning oil and see smoke coming from under the hood.

Alone with his thoughts and genuinely concerned with his postseason chances, those few minutes of isolation at Daytona International Speedway could have been troubling for a 25-year-old driver with so little NASCAR experience.

Instead, Reddick turned them into a positive.

"It was nice in a way to sit back there and kind of reset on what we had to do," Reddick said.

Reddick checked off a lengthy to-do list following that red-flag stoppage — most of it involving making sure his damaged No. 8 was in working order — and drove his way into the playoffs. Reddick finished fifth in the Cup Series regular-season finale Saturday night and secured the final spot in the 16-car postseason field.

He entered the weekend in the best position to earn that last berth. But more than a dozen other drivers, including Richard Childress Racing teammate Austin Dillon, could have ruined his season.

Several of them had a chance following the final restart. Ryan Blaney, though, who had already clinched a playoff spot, beat everyone to the checkered flag and lifted Reddick into the postseason.

"It would have been a real tough pill to swallow walking out of this place, out of the playoffs after the turnaround we've had and running the way we were," Reddick said. "It would have been a hard one to walk away from."

Standing on pit road after a mild celebration with his RCR crew and his sponsors, Reddick looked up at the scoreboard and rattled off several guys who could have changed his fortune: Chris Buescher (who was later disqualified), Bubba Wallace, Ryan Newman and Ryan Preece.

"A lot happened in a matter of 30 minutes," Reddick said. "Kind of emotionally just spent."

Nonetheless, he reflected on everything that nearly went wrong in the 400-mile superspeedway race, none of it more heart-stopping than running into the back of Martin Truex Jr. late in the race and having to deal with damage the rest of the way.

"Going through this tonight is going to make us tougher and it's going to make the challenge and the next bump in the road seem less small," Reddick said.

He could have said the same about his season. Reddick improved 17 spots, from 28th to 11th, in points after a lackluster start to his second full-time Cup season. Now, though, he has five top-10 finishes in the last eight races.

He's certainly not a title favorite heading to Darlington Raceway for the opening race in the first round. Regular-season champion Kyle Larson, steady but winless Denny Hamlin and reigning series champ Chase Elliott are the front-runners.

But Reddick shouldn't be considered an afterthought, especially in the first round that includes three of his favorite tracks (Darlington, Richmond, Bristol).

"Now that everything's kind of reset and a lot of 16th through at least 10th or eighth is really, really tight. I feel like a lot of those cars were around and a number of them are good, and on just our OK days, we've been able to run with and outperform. That excites me going into this first round, which is tracks I love.

"I feel like this was the huge mountain we had to get over to kind of being in the valley of the playoffs for a while. I'm just more excited than anything for this challenge ahead."

NASCAR gives Scott family 1963 race trophy

BY MARK LONG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Wendell Scott's grandson stood on his tippy toes, leaned over and kissed the trophy that was nearly 60 years in the making.

NASCAR presented Scott's family a custom trophy commemorating his historic 1963 victory prior to Saturday's Cup Series race at Daytona International Speedway. Scott was the first and remains the only Black driver to win a race at NASCAR's top level.

NASCAR President Steve Phelps gave Scott's son, Frank Scott, the trophy on stage following a pre-race concert and just before driver introductions. Driver Bubba Wallace, NASCAR's lone full-time Black driver, joined several of Scott's family members on stage for the ceremony.

As they started to leave the dais, Warrick Scott got his chance to pose with the trophy. Instead of holding or hoisting it, he decided to kiss it. It was maybe the most telling scene of what this meant to the family.

Wendell Scott passed Richard Petty with 25 laps remaining at Speedway Park in Jacksonville on Dec. 1, 1963, in the Jacksonville 200. But Buck Baker, who actually finished second, was declared the winner and received the trophy in victory lane.

Race officials discovered hours later that Scott was the actual winner and had lapped the entire field twice. But he was not credited with the victory for another two years, and his family has long pushed for a proper celebration.

"It matters because my father earned it and it was something he had to labor on," Frank Scott said. "He always wanted to get his trophy and he predicted that he would get his trophy one day. He said, 'I may not be here with you all, but one day I'll get my trophy.' "

Scott retired because of injuries suffered in a 1973 crash at Talladega Superspeedway, and the Danville, Virginia, native died in 1990 of spinal cancer.

He was posthumously inducted into the NASCAR Hall of Fame in 2015, two years after the city of Danville awarded Scott a historical marker. The statement on the marker praises Scott for "persevering over prejudice and discrimination, Scott broke racial barriers in NASCAR." In a 13-year career, Scott notched 20 top-five finishes.

NASCAR picked the regular-season finale for the presentation because of its proximity to Jacksonville and because it comes one day before what would have been Scott's 100th birthday.

In doubles, Matthew Burkhardt and Bodie Harsin knocked off Jacob Dettmer and Lincoln West 6-3, 6-3 at No. 1 while Landon True and Abe Reetz lost 6-3, 6-1 to Tyler Ernst and Henry Ulrich at No. 2.

Madison, now 2-4, hosted Trinity Lutheran on Monday and hosts Salem today. The Cubs travel to South Dearborn on Thursday.

CARROLL SOCCER WINS BY FORFEIT

Carroll County's soccer teams both picked up 1-0 forfeit wins over Frankfort Christian on Saturday due to COVID-19 protocols.

The Carroll boys, now 3-2, travel to Bullitt Central today and host Owen County on Thursday.

on shortstop Miguel Rojas' throwing error for a 5-0 lead.

Cincinnati increased its advantage on Moustakas' solo blast in the eighth. Moustakas drove reliever Paul Campbell's first pitch to the upper deck in right for his sixth homer of the season.

ROSTER MOVE

The Reds claimed IF Asdrúbal Cabrera off waivers from the Arizona Diamondbacks. Cabrera, who is expected to join the club Saturday, appeared in 90 games with Arizona in 2021 and hit .244 with seven homers and 40 RBIs.

Although the Reds didn't pursue a bat threat at the trade deadline, adding Cabrera for the final five weeks could prove helpful in securing a postseason berth. The 35-year-old Cabrera has played for five playoff teams, including the 2019 World Series champion Washington Nationals.

"Mainly we're just adding a player that has a lot of experience in big games and good teams," Bell said. "Great reputation as a person, teammate. Just really happy to add a veteran experienced player, especially with where we are right now and where we're headed this last month."

Marlins 6, Reds 1 (Saturday) — Sandy Alcantara enjoyed a big lead early and finished with a flourish.

Buoyed by uncharacteristic run support, Alcantara had a career-high 12 strikeouts in seven innings Saturday night to help the Miami Marlins beat the Cincinnati Reds for the first time in six meetings this year, 6-1.

Alcantara (8-12) allowed one run and retired the last 11 batters he faced, seven by strikeout.

The Marlins had totaled one run in Alcantara's past two starts and have struggled to score for him all season. But Jesús Sánchez hit a three-run homer against Vladimir Gutiérrez as Miami gave Alcantara a 5-0 lead after one inning.

Alcantara achieved a career high in strikeouts for the second start in a row, with both coming against the Reds. He increased his season strikeout total to 158, surpassing his previous career high.

FACE IN THE CROWD

Melissa Gonzalez, who competed for the United States in the 400-meter hurdles earlier this month, drew an ovation when she was appeared on the videoboards. She is married to Detroit quarterback Blough, who cheered her on at the Tokyo Games from the Lions' practice facility.
